

PAID ADS

Paid music promotion: what are you buying?

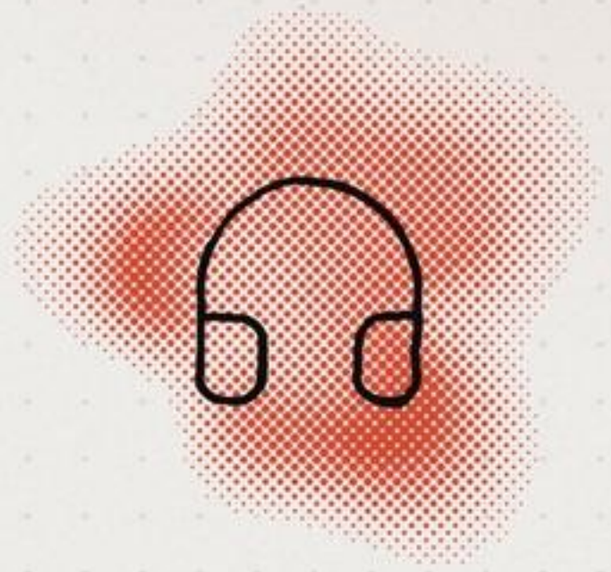

Two artists, $10,000 in ad spend each, two different goals.

By Benjamin Means · swipe →

TWO GOALS

Listening and income are different goals

Both are valid. They need different plans.

Artist A wants the album heard

LISTENING

Artist B wants it to help pay rent

INCOME

Hypothetical example. $10,000 is ad spend only.

ARTIST A

Test small, hold the rest

Planning numbers for the example, not a forecast.

TEST

$1,500

OVER TWO WEEKS

HOLD

$8,500

UNTIL THE REPORTS

A click is not a play

CHECK LISTENING

Hypothetical example. $10,000 is ad spend only.

ARTIST B

Do the break-even math first

Before anyone’s fees. $12 is an example, not a benchmark.

LEFT PER RECORD

$12

AFTER PRESSING, SHIPPING

TO COVER $10,000

834

SALES

Hypothetical example. $10,000 is ad spend only.

AFTER THE ADS STOP

What do you keep?

If you pay to grow something and keep nothing, what did you pay for?

| | |
|---|---|
| Reports | NO NAMES |
| Platform audience | RETARGET |
| Contacts | WITH PERMISSION |
| Sales records | YOUR STORE |

BEFORE YOU SPEND

Write these down first

1. The goal
   Listening, income, or something else specific.

2. Where the ad sends people
   And check the page works.

3. Test amount and reserve
   What runs now, what waits.

4. The review date
   And what you'll check on it.

5. What you'll still own
   When the campaign ends.

OUR READ

Both artists can win. They need to know what they bought.

Full post at meansmgmt.com