

AFTER THE RELEASE · 1 OF 2

What Spotify's 14-day window counts

Ads Manager counts a stream when someone who saw or heard your ad plays at least 30 seconds of the artist within 14 days.

By Benjamin Means · swipe →

TWO WINDOWS

Two windows, two questions

A three-week flight keeps counting streams until day 35.

14

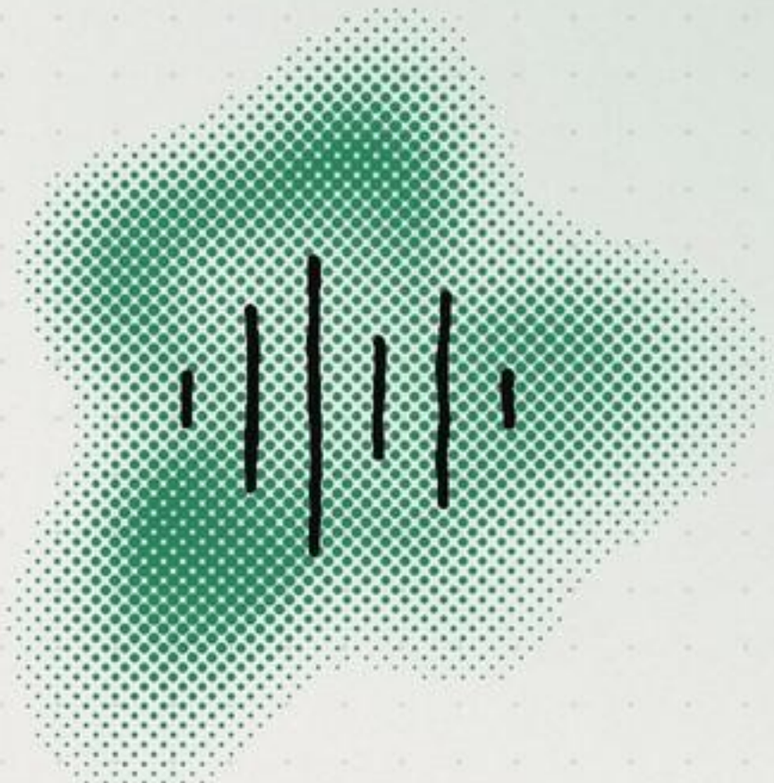

DAYS · STREAMS

30

DAYS · PIXEL AND CAPI EVENTS

Streams, listeners, new listeners	ADS MANAGER
Page views, leads, purchases, sign-ups	PIXEL + CAPI

Spotify Ads Manager help center · accessed Oct 2026

THE UNIT

A stream means the artist, any song, 30 seconds

A release ad gets credit for catalog plays by everyone it reached.

A five-year-old song of yours	COUNTS
A fan who plays you every week	COUNTS
No plays in the 28 days before the ad	NEW LISTENER

Ads Manager reporting glossary · accessed Oct 2026

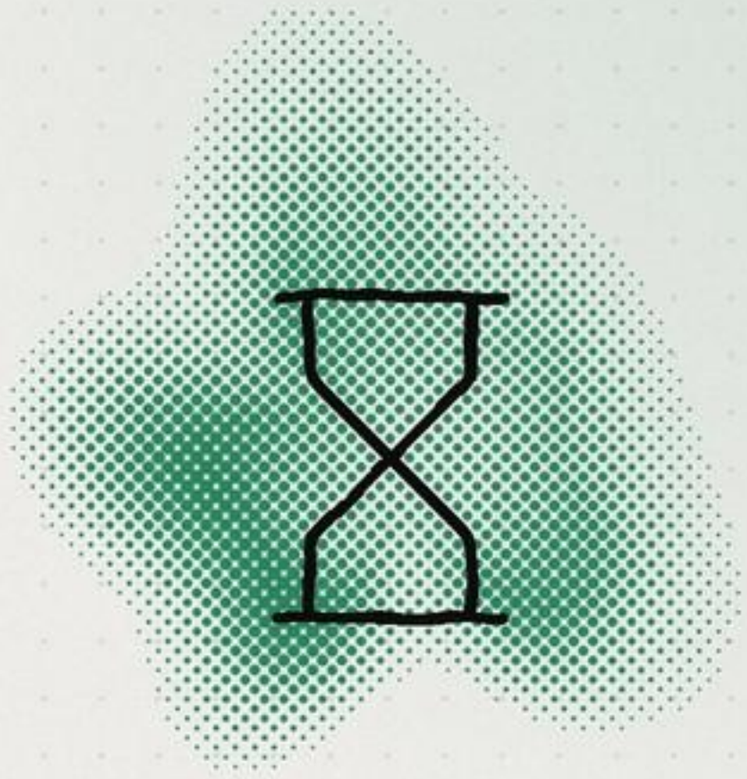

FIVE REPORTS

Five reports, five units

Marquee counts the promoted release. Ads Manager counts the whole artist.

Ads Manager streaming metrics	14 DAYS
Spotify Pixel and Conversions API	30 DAYS
Marquee and Showcase	14 DAYS
Discovery Mode	14 DAYS
Spotify for Artists stats	ONGOING

Spotify Ads Manager, Spotify for Artists · accessed Oct 2026

THRESHOLDS AND LAG

Why day one looks empty

A dash means below threshold. For conversions, the real count is 0 to 4.

About 24 hours before metrics start	LAG
500 impressions and 100 reach	ROW FLOOR
5 conversions	CONVERSION FLOOR
14 more days after the last impression	STILL COUNTING

Spotify Ads Manager help center · accessed Oct 2026

OUR DATA

The artist against their own history

Average daily streams vs the prior 28-day average, median

18 Meta streaming pushes

704 stretches with no recorded Meta spend · weighted

Pushes came out ahead for 3 of 4 artists 4 ARTISTS

Trust the direction more than the size NO HOLDOUT

MeansMGMT S4A re-audit, 2026-09-22 · 4 of 9 artists · Meta spend only, anonymized

OUR READ

Pull your numbers 14 days after the last impression.

Part 2: should you keep running ads after a release?

Full post at meansmgmt.com